

Wribbenhall Viaduct as seen from Platform 1 facing north. In pre-preservation days, there were two crossovers here, giving access to platforms 2 and 3 from the former Tenbury Wells line (seen on the left). The trackwork was simplified in order to gain assent for passenger running on the preserved Severn Valley Railway. A short length of the closed Tenbury Line remains as a siding.

Photograph By C.Collins